Ice Storm Stalls Traffic In City Area

Mishaps Hurt Two Persons In Mansfield

Street, Highway Crews Work All Night In Attempt to Keep Routes Open; Warmer Weather to Ease Hazard.

Freezing rain which began falling yesterday afternoon glazed streets and highways in the Mansfield area, paralyzing traffic and stranding scores of motorists headed for home after the New Year holiday. Two persons were hurt in falls on the ice in Mansfield.

Five Richland county schools, scheduled to open today after the holidays, remained closed because buses were unable to reach pupils on country roads.

The weatherman said rising temperatures and rain probably would wash away most of the ice before tonight. The rain is due to turn to snow tomorrow as cold weather sweeps in from the Canadian northwest.

Although police reported nine minor accidents on icy streets between 3 and 5 p. m., no injuries were reported in auto mishaps either in the city or throughout the area.

State patrolmen, who also experienced a busy day and night with some freak property damage accidents, warned that roads were still dangerous in the area, and that dense fog was reported north of Bucyrus and from Mt. Gilead to Columbus.

Suffers Head Cut.

Injured in falls on the ice yesterday were W. B. Hill, 112 Hedges street, treated at General hospital for a two-inch cut on the back of the head, and Clare Baker of New Kensington, Pa., who suffered facial lacerations when he fell at Fourth and Main streets at 5:30 p. m. Police said Hill fell on the ice at Park avenue west and Bowman street.

Boyd Robinson, superintendent of Richland county schools, said that boards of education ordered opening of schools delayed at Lexington, Shiloh, Ontario, Bellville and in Union Rural district today. Most of the county schools are not to reopen until Jan. 6.

Supt. L. C. Stingel of the Ontario schools said classes there wouldn't be resumed until Monday and the scheduled basketball game with Plymouth tomorrow night has been postponed.

"It was the worst night we've experienced in three years." Gail Hammett, assistant superintendent of the state highway garage, said. "Secondary roads are still hazardous for driving today, although the over-all condition is a lot better."

8 Crews Busy.

Hammett said that eight highway maintenance crews worked the entire night salting the main highways and cindering the secondary roads. Hammett added that the crews will stay on the job until the ice hazard is gone.

Some 35 tons of salt and cinders were spread on city streets up to midnight last night and a four-truck crew was out again today.

Street Supt. C. H. Hebel said

ASK FOR BIDS ON SATATORIUM

Commissioners Act Following Receipt of Construction Permit From CPA.

County commissioners today passed a resolution to advertise for contractors' bids on their proposed new $400,000 49-bed county tuberculosis sanatorium.

The action came two days after receipts of a construction permit from the Civilian Production administration.

According to the resolution, passed by a unanimous vote of the three commissioners, bids will be accepted for opening no later than noon, Feb. 11, in the commissioners' office at the courthouse.

Conferring with the commissioners this morning was Architect H. S. Jones who was instructed to confer with County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz in drawing up the legal advertising and forming the bidding blanks which contractors will use.

Action was deferred on the sale of $300,000 in bonds approved for the project by the voters in November, 1945.

The resolution starts the wheels turning again in efforts to build a new county sanatorium. The CPA permit stipulates that construction must begin within 60 days after CPA approval and that the building must be completed within a year.

Plans call for a modern four-story structure to be erected on a gift site 12 miles southeast of Mansfield on State Route 39. When completed it will replace the 28-bed hospital now housed in a leased building on Lexington avenue.

TOLL REACHES 13

LIBERICK, Eire — (AP) — The death toll resulting from last Saturday's crash of the TWA Constellation, Star of Cairo, near Shannon airport stood at 13 today. Dudley Hill, 34, of Alexandria, Va., the plane's radio officer, died here yesterday only a day after his father, William T. Hill of Alexandria, had arrived here to see him.

CIO ACCUSED OF VIOLATING ELECTION LAW

60 Unions, 11 Corporations, Communist Party Named By House Committee.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — A special house committee which investigated the November elections today accused 60 CIO unions, 11 corporations and the Communist party of violating the corrupt practices act.

It said it would ask the justice department to investigate them.

The campaign expenditures committee charged the unions and corporations with violating a section of the act prohibiting any corporation or union from making contributions in connection with any elections.

It charged the Communist party with violation of the act by failing to report its campaign expenditures to the clerk of the house as required by law.

Col. Robert B. Barker, chief committee investigator, said the unions included the National Maritime union, American Communications association, United Electrical Radio and Machine workers, Amalgamated Clothing workers, American Newspaper guild, United Public workers, Transport Workers union and the Teachers Union of the United Public workers.

The 11 corporations were cited for making contributions to Americans United for World Government, Inc.

Action Taken Today.

Barker said the committee's report would be turned over to Attorney General Tom C. Clark "sometime today."

The possible penalty if the unions and corporations are convicted is a $5,000 fine for an organization and a $1,000 fine or one year's imprisonment or both, for any officer for each violation.

The Communist party could be fined $10,000. Its officers, if convicted, could be fined $10,000 or sentenced to two years imprisonment, or both.

The report said the 60 unions contributed about $50,000 to the greater New York Political Action Coordinating committee and the New York County American Labor Party Campaign committee.

Both committees supported Rep Vito Marcantonio, A-L., N. Y., in his successful re-election campaign.

WAA ACCUSED OF FAVORITISM

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A special house committee investigating surplus disposal accused the War Assets Administration today of "sloppy business methods" and "favoritism, if not downright corruption."

The committee declared WAA's cost of doing business was "stupendous, in fact prohibitive" and said the whole surplus property disposal program may end up "showing a net loss to the government."

The group, headed by Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo), said in its final report the investigation should be continued through a successor committee.

Meanwhile, it recommended congress should eliminate priorities for the purchase of all property except real estate, exempting only government agencies buying for their own use.

FIRST BABY—Totally unaware of the interest he caused, one-day-old Michael David Huntsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huntsman, 162 Brooker place, sleeps peacefully in the arms of his nurse, Mrs. Rosemary Bogner. Young Michael, who weighed in at eight pounds, 11 ounces, was born exactly 33 minutes after bells rang in the New Year. He was born at General hospital Wednesday at 12:33 a. m. (Photo by A. C. 1947's 33 Minutes Old When First Baby Born

A husky eight-pound, 11-ounce boy, Michael David Huntsman, appeared at Mansfield General hospital yesterday morning just 33 minutes after the traditional New Year's infant had presented his smiling face to hospital officials.

Michael David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huntsman, 162 Brooker place, was the first of seven babies who chose New Year's day as their birthdays.

As the result of Michael's fortunate appearance, he and his mother probably will be the recipients of 11 special gifts from Mansfield business men. A crib and mattress will be forthcoming from Kobacker's. Leed's drug store will give Michael $2.50 in cash for his "piggy bank." Kaler's Beauty Shop has promised the mother of 1947's first baby a permanent wave as soon as she can appear at the shop; and Perez Studio will take a picture of Michael for that special baby book.

Other prizes will include an "old charm" quilt from Zanes; a three-piece baby outfit from the Jack and Jill shop; a two-piece baby bunting from Montgomery Ward; a pair of Mrs. Day's special baby shoes from the Liberty Shoe Store and a luxurious ride home for Michael and his mother by the Jones Memorial.

There will be one surprise gift. That has been promised by Fox's Jewelry store.

Six other babies were born yesterday at the hospital. They were: a son to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Birky, 315 Taylor road; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Moton Smith, Wooster road; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schoonover, 119 West Longview avenue; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kissel, 279 Bulkley avenue; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown, 352 Bowman street, and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bair, 462 West Sixth street.

CAMPAIGN HITS HALF-WAY MARK

With Friendly House building fund donations passing the half-way mark, campaign officials launched an accelerated drive today to reach the $60,000 goal.

Commenting that "pre-holiday response to the drive was splendid" and that today's report of $30,018 "is highly gratifying," Paul Endriss, campaign chairman, urged Mansfielders to speed up the contributions to put the Friendly House campaign "over the top."

"Our campaign committee has not been putting on too much pressure due to the busy holiday season," Endriss said, "but now that the holidays are over, we are asking all Mansfielders to give the Friendly House cause serious consideration.

"The building fund drive forms a responsibility for everyone in Mansfield, regardless of financial status."

The campaign office is in the R. E. Moorhead garage. Checks should be made out to the Friendly House building fund.

Today's report figure includes gifts from the following merchants and business establishments:

Mansfield Plating company, $200; Wagner Hardware company, $200; Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company, $200; Wappner funeral home, $100; Evergreens cafeteria, $100; Richland, Inc., $100; R. B. Gardner garage, $50; Pendleton's market, $25; and Babcock Donut shop, $10.

FOUR CONFESS STORE HOLD-UP, SHERIFF SAYS

3 Men, Teen-Age Youth Held in Theft of $580 From Market on Ashland Road.

Three men and a teen-age youth who, authorities said, admitted holding up the Black Fork market at the point of a gun Monday night were in the county jail today, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson reported.

The four, reported to have robbed Mrs. Sam Stankovich, wife of the market proprietor, of $580 in cash, confessed after deputies arrested them at their homes in Mansfield yesterday, Robinson said.

It was one of the swiftest apprehensions of bandits in recent Richland county and Mansfield history. It came through the cooperation of the Mansfield and Ashland police departments and an unnamed Ashland motorist who observed three of the men run from the market to their get-away car.

The pocketbook containing the cash and the 32-caliber pistol one of the men brandished have been recovered but the men insist there was only $1.80 in the purse, Robinson said.

"Thanks to the Ashland motorist who was able to give a good description of the men's car and the Ashland and Mansfield police departments, we were able to arrest the men yesterday. All four have confessed to their parts in the robbery," Robinson said.

* * *

Saw Men Leaving.

The Ashland motorist, after reading in the News-Journal an account of the robbery, told Ashland police that he saw the men run for their car and gave officers a description of the vehicle. Ashland police called the sheriff's department which was aided in tracing the auto in Mansfield by the Mansfield police.

The youth is only 15 years old, a delinquent who is on parole from the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster where he was committed in 1944 for placing large screws on the Pennsylvania railroad track in the path of a passenger train.

Two of the other three, 24 and 34 years of age, have police records, one for petty larceny and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license and the other for absence without leave while serving in the army and disorderly conduct.

The third, 25, has no known police record although a check of FBI records is being made, it was said.

"They won't admit there was any more than $1.80 in the pocketbook," Robinson said. "But we believe there was and we may subject them to lie detector tests."

The robbery was committed about 9:30 p. m. Monday. Mrs. Stankovich, whose husband was absent at the time, reported the theft about two hours later because she said she was afraid to leave the market.

The sheriff was conferring with the county prosecutor this morning on the charges to be filed.

Bilbo Ouster Action Holds Top Interest

Republican Leaders Favor Move to Bar Mississippi Senator From Seat As Congress Convenes.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Republicans in control of the 80th congress dropped the last organization gears in place today for a legislative session carrying their bid for postwar prosperity and a presidential victory in 1948.

The GOP-dominated house and senate convene at noon tomorrow, then will stand in recess to receive President Truman's state-of-the-union message Monday.

But before advancing a program of proposed tax cuts, government economies and labor curbs, the new majority scheduled final action today on these matters:

1. A senate GOP decision on procedure to be taken against Sen. Bilbo (D) Miss. Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, indicated Republicans favored barring Bilbo at the door, rather than moving to expel him after he has been seated.

2. Formal selection of house Republican leaders. Slated are Rep. Martin (R) Mass. for speaker, Rep. Halleck (R) Ind., for floor leader, and Rep. Arends (R) Ill., for majority whip. Martin's nomination alone goes to the full house.

Democrats in both houses also convened to fill minority posts. Sen. Barkley (D) Ky. was unopposed for minority leader in the upper chamber while Speaker Sam Rayburn, of Texas, was nominated to be minority leader of the house. He will be elected to that post later today.

Republican party differences over committee assignments in the senate and the house majority leadership vanished in displays of last-minute "harmony."

* * *

Brown Seeks 'Harmony.'

The house problem was settled when Rep. Brown (R) Ohio withdrew from the contest for majority leader to forestall what he said was a "bitter intra-party fight."

There was speculation that Brown may take a leading role in Sen. Taft's expected campaign for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948. The Ohio congressman served as convention floor manager for John W. Bricker when he won the GOP vice-presidential nomination two years ago.

Armed with a senate war investigating committee report holding that Bilbo "improperly used" his office for "personal gain" in dealings with war contractors, senate leaders speedily agreed on their ouster move. But they failed to concur at once on the method of procedure.

* * *

Tax Cut Comes First.

In the house, it was apparent that the first major legislative item would be the bill of Rep. Knutson (R) Minn. cutting individual income taxes 20 per cent "across the board."

Knutson promised to have his bill ready for floor action by Jan. 27 despite the opinion of leading senate Republicans who argue that tax cuts must await a determination of government economies.

Taft and other senators are more disposed to make labor legislation "No. 1" on their agenda.

Their case was strengthened by President Truman's proclamation terminating hostilities as of noon Tuesday. This action wiped out the government's power to seize strike-threatened plants.

BIG PAY CLAIM HITS CAR FIRM

CIO to File Portal Pay Suits Seeking Over 222 Million Dollars From Ford.

DETROIT —(INS)— The United Automobile Workers-CIO will file portal-to-portal pay suits on behalf of Ford Motor company employes over the nation today asking 222 million 330 thousand dollars in claims.

UAW Vice President Richard T. Leonard said the suits will be filed simultaneously on the basis of legal studies made in the union's Detroit headquarters over a period of weeks.

The claims are supervised by the UAW's national Ford department.

They ask a total of 790 million 110 thousand dollars for Ford workers in Michigan and 32 million 320 thousand dollars for employes of Ford plants elsewhere in the country.

Suits for 40 million dollars on behalf of workers at Ford's wartime Willow Run, Mich., bomber plant and eight million dollars for the company's South Chicago plant workers brings the total of portal claims against the sprawling automotive firm to 270 million 320 thousand dollars.

Leonard said "the staggering" sum is "based on the maximum limitation allowed under the United States supreme court decision" in the precedent-setting case of the Mt. Clemens, Mich., Pottery company.

The UAW official called on the Republican-dominated incoming congress to "protect" the rights of workers "under the wage and hour law." He declared that the union "can assure congress that union workers are cognizant of the value and justice of their portal to portal claims."

B-RR, THIS COLD DIP SEEMS 'DIPPY'

FORT WAYNE, Ind. —(UP)— Twenty men and one woman defied a temperature of 24 degrees for a New Year's Day swim in the icy St. Joseph river.

The group, members of the Polar Bear club, put a hole through two inches of ice and swam for seven or eight minutes. It was the club's 13th annual swim.

Lone woman in the group was Mrs. Effie Gebhardt, 40, who told on-lookers, "the only reason we got out was that the ice started to freeze over again.

Let Courts Act, Says Portal Pay Act Author

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), co-author of the law on which portal-to-portal pay suits are based, said today congress should keep hands off the issue until the courts have had their say.

But several Republican senators expressed the opinion that the new GOP-controlled congress would have to come to grips with the snowballing suits in which unions now seek more than $2,000,000,000 from employers.

On the house side, Rep. Hoffman (R., Mich.) said he would propose amendment of the Fair Labor Standards Act to define a work week as the time actually spent in productive labor.

Thomas told a reporter "there should be no legislative action until there is some firm decision in the courts on the matter." He said the courts "can settle this thing better than anyone else."

The Utah Democrat said he took that stand despite the supreme court decision which started the run of suits. The high court ruled that workers should be paid for "all time during which an employe is required to be on an employer's premises."

Result Not Foreseen.

"I was one of the authors of the Fair Labor Standards Act (the law involved) and I know that portal-to-portal pay was not even thought of when the bill was discussed." Thomas said. "Just what constitutes a 40-hour work week is the matter that has to be decided now.

"But I am not going to pass judgment on something that is before the courts. And my opinion is that it will be difficult to get congress to do so, judging from 150 years of precedent."

On the other side of the political fence Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) said it would seem that the matter is serious enough so that congress would take it up among the first subjects of legislation."

Republican Senators Brewster of Maine and Donnell of Missouri also said they expect something would have to be done, but along with Flanders they withheld comment on just what form it should take.

THESE SIX TRAILED MICHAEL—Four young daughters and two sons shared honors with Michael David Huntsman at General hospital yesterday as one by one they filled six new little cribs in the nursery, the stork's presentation for New Year's. Magician and Troupe Foil Death In Crash

NASHVILL, Tenn —(UP)—John Calvert, a professional magician whose DC-3 airliner crashed into a house and carried away a housewife and her kitchen sink considered it a miracle today that his 15 passengers and seven occupants of the house escaped death.

Mrs Birtie Hill, the housewife who landed in a peach orchard buried in debris, and five members of Calvert's troupe of magicians were injured. All will recover, physicians said.

Calvert, a veteran pilot and stage performer of Los Angeles, barnstorms his troupe throughout the country. He suffered a broken leg after being knocked clear of the plane, luckily within hearing of Mrs. Hill.

Pilot Rescues Woman.

He heard her cries for help, and despite his pain, pulled her free from the ruins of her house and plane.

Mrs. Hill said that she heard the drone of the motor as it approached the house. She thought it sounded like the engine of the streamliner which passes near the house daily around 7:30 p. m.

Calvert's plane, "Mystic Lady," had left Richmond, Va., carrying the troupe for a performance in this city. The pilot apparently mistook the lights of a slow moving train near the airport for the runway. Visibility was poor because of fog and rain.

Mrs. Hill was washing dishes and talking to her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Sidler, who with their four children were in another room.

The plane smashed into the house carrying the kitchen and an adjoining bedroom some 75 yards into an orchard. Those in the other half of the house were not even scratched.

Calvert said he tried for altitude when he found that he was still a distance from the runway but the motor failed and he couldn't pull out.

Calvert was tossed out on the icy ground. His co-pilot, Robert Jones, was pinned in his seat. The other passengers were bruised and shaken up.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—The spectacle of Joe Curran, the president of the National Maritime union, running to Harry Lundeberg, the incarnation of Popeye the Sailor, for protection from the Communists, is one that no artist can paint, however drunk.

Curran is a fellow who has run with the Communists, bunked with them and employed their wiles and oppressive tassments, and, in one notorious case, threw an American sailor off an army transport because he had offered a resolution condemning Communism Nazi-Fascism like. Lundeberg with a small exception, has hated the Communists with a sensuous joy, and fought and derided and frustrated them, and Curran with them, for years.

While Curran and his Communist friends were promoting "social services" for their subjects afloat and ashore and beaching American sailors for as long as 99 years for impoliteness to illiterate and gamey savages from the Caribbean waterfronts, Popeye ridiculed him as not excessively manly South Street mission stiff and bade brown jolly tars to keep out of the subsidized coffee and salad pans.

* * *

POPEYE SAID a sailor was a sailor, not a man with a message or a high purpose to create a bright new world. District policy as a professional matter was to get as much pay as the traffic would stand, and the best possible food, quarters and conditions, and to hell with the bourgeois-bourban slumbers and their hoity-toity sympathy with poor Jack.

Popeye fought Harry Bridges in defiant contempt of the Supreme Court's fine-drawn decision that Bridges was not quite a Communist, and his union publications, with a humor as rough as pig-iron, sometimes drew beads of gore through a hide as thick as Senator Joe Guffey's.

* * *

CURRAN, TOO, in a union publication, called the Pilot, so largely an organ of personal exaltation that it was not unusual to find six photographs of Joe, usually posed in beneficent postures, in one issue. But sabotage seems to have bared its green and slimy fangs on an occasion when Mrs. Curran had a baby and the Pilot reported that Joe had been brought to bed of the strain, a hell of a plight for a seafaring man.

Again, intentionally or not, and perhaps through miscalculation, the Pilot, on another occasion, notified the subjects that Joe's own column of lightsome banter and angry politics would be suspended during the period of his vacation, which coincided with his only trip to sea during the war. His draft board, and he was eligible for induction, had deferred him on the ground that his work as a unioneer was worthy, and so he sailed away in gentle weather to Africa whence he returned to learn that his high courage had been discounted by his own editorial staff's incautious reference to his "vacation."

* * *

CURRAN FOUND himself drawn into a committee of unity for the maritime trades, found his own large union outvoted by a bunch of smaller unions, and rebelled. In unity, he was losing his identity. And so then he ran to Lundeberg for help and comfort, and Popeye seems to have taken the practical view that all of us should take, and so few of us have courage to, toward the beaten and wretched people of Germany.

Lundeberg was willing to accept his victory, forget the angers and atrocities of war and receive the cooperation of one old enemy in the continuing fight on all the others, the employers as well as the Communists.

This, I believe, means that Lundeberg will be head man in the new group and Curran a subordinate, perhaps with some grant of honor for vanity and face.

Lippman — Today and Tomorrow

ALTHOUGH ONCE again there is talk in Washington about reorganizing the State Department and the management of foreign affairs, it is hard to see—if we face up to the real trouble—how under present circumstances it is to be remedied.

Eventually, however, if we can understand clearly enough what is the trouble, the will ideal with it no doubt will arise. And where there is a will, there would be a way.

The trouble is that with Mr. Truman's—shall be say-modesty and Secretary Byrnes's way of carrying the State Department around in his hat, there is no central direction of our foreign policy.

* * *

TAKE, FOR EXAMPLE, the subject of disarmament. Our policy on armaments is separated into at least three compartments, each under separate management.

Bernard M. Baruch is making and managing our policy on atomic weapons.

Our position on the strategic bases seems to have been made in the Navy Department and proclaimed by the president to our delegates who were charged with the negotiation about trusteeship.

On atomic energy we are the uncompromising advocates of a system of international inspection and control. On the strategic bases we are opposed to inspection and control.

* * *

THE SAME division into bits and pieces is to be found elsewhere. Gen. MacArthur makes and administers most of our policy in Japan. Edwin Pauley is trying to make another part of it.

Gen. Marshall makes and administers part of our China policy, but not the whole of it.

Others are making our policy in southeast Asia and the Philippines, and if there is any over-all connection and direction of all our actions in Asia and the Pacific it is not evident to the observer.

Applied to South America, to Spain, to the Middle East and to Germany, this method of dealing with questions separately results in our having no long views, no general constructive aims.

* * *

IF THERE WERE an over-all and central direction of American foreign policy, we would have told the world, when Molotov proposed general disarmament at the United Nations conference, that the regulation of armaments cannot precede but must follow a general settlement of the war.

* * *

OUR POSITION would have been that we would enter seriously and exhaustively into the business of discussing how all armaments—from atomic weapons to reserves of infantry—are to be reduced and regulated.

But we would have said we shall not disarm before there is peace, only when there is peace.

No one could have challenged the validity of a policy where the United States, sponsoring a general European, a general Middle Eastern, and a general Far Eastern settlement, insisted it could not enter into general disarmament until these general settlements have been secured.

If only we could consider our foreign relations as a whole, it would save us no end of embarrassment and confusion.

BUS SERVICE RESUMES

CANTON — (AP) — City buses were back in service today after a four-hour interruption last night caused by icy streets that made driving precarious.

RIDERS ESCAPE INJURY IN 13 AUTO MISHAPS

Ice-Coated Streets Blamed For Most of Accidents.

Thirteen accidents in Mansfield and surrounding area were reported on New Year's day, but no one was injured.

Mansfield police reported nine mishaps between 3 and 5:30 p. m. caused by ice-coated streets. State patrolmen attributed at least two of four mishaps to slippery roads.

Mishaps involved 10 Mansfielders and five parked cars, owned by Mansfielders.

A car driven by Kenneth P. Crow, 312 Sturges avenue, was involved in a four-car, ice-caused accident yesterday around 5:15 p. m. on Glessner avenue.

Police said the entire front end of Crow's auto was damaged when his car slid into a parked car owned by Robert Emerson, 121 Glessner avenue.

Strikes Parked Car.

Emerson's car then struck a parked one owned by Thomas Funea, 115 Glessner avenue, which then hit the fourth car, owned by Tensley Hariston, 294 East First street.

Officers said that three of the cars skidded some distance before they came to a halt. Crow's car collided with a tree.

A city truck driven by Jacob W. Thomas, 131 Raleigh avenue, being used to salt streets, skidded into a car owned by LeRoy Bond, 91 East Fourth street, after the car had been hit by another vehicle, police reported.

Auto Hits Bridge.

A car driven by Arthur Hankins, jr., 283 Reform street, skidded into an unlighted auto which had collided with a bridge.

'Fender Benders.'

Four residents of the Mansfield area were involved in what state patrolmen termed "fender benders" from 2 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. yesterday.

At 2 a. m., George Moga, 22, Mansfield R. D. 2, escaped serious injury when he lost control of his auto, seven miles north of Mansfield on State Route 13 and overturned.

Schag, driver of the car, told patrolmen that he lost control of his auto on Route 13, six miles north of the city, and crashed into a telephone pole. Officers said that the utility pole was broken off and that there was considerable property damage to the Schag car. The mishap occurred at 4:15 a. m.

COUNTY GETS $90,925 FOR AAA PROGRAM

Richland county's Triple-A program was allocated $90,925 today to distribute to county farmers for participating in the federal soil conservation program in 1947. The fund was about the same as the amount allocated last year.

The allotments were announced by Elmer F. Kruse, state director of the Production and Marketing administration.

Allocations to other counties in the Mansfield area included: Crawford, $93,875; Knox, $103,708, and Marion, $89,116. The Ohio allotment totaled $7,391,000.

Kruse said in 1947 the Agricultural Adjustment administration program on soil conservation had been liberalized so that each county could spend up to 10 per cent of its funds for conservation practices not included in the list of 18 authorized activities.

Authorized activities include application of fertilizers to legumes, lime and fertilizers to pastures, contouring and contour seeding of grain crops, construction of ponds, establishment of sod waterways, improvement of drainage and plowing down of green manure crops.

Up and Down The Street

ANOTHER EXPLANATION—

Now the truth about Norm Dresser, News-Journal state editor who slept his way from Mansfield to Massillon, comes out. Norm, making his drowsy way back to the old homestead after a visit in Chicago, reported that the Pennsylvania railroad conductor failed to wake him at Mansfield and he woke up in Massillon. But now comes the conductor with the explanation that the service was performed but that Norm, unbeknown to the conductor promptly returned to his slumbers. Final development of the affair was that the kind conductor graciously provided Norm transportation back to Mansfield.

LIGHT THIEVES—

Thieves made off with six strings of outdoor lights from the front of a South Main street home late New Year's eve. Mrs. Curtis Bechtel, 421 South Main street, said the theft occurred sometime after 11:45 p. m. The lights were valued at $21, she told police.

GREETINGS APLENTY—

Mansfielders set records in extending New Year's greetings yesterday and the day before. R. G. Clarke, manager of the local office of Western Union, reported greeting messages, which totaled more than 300, amounted to "about a 75 per cent gain over last year" and a small percentage gain over the best pre-war years. Long distance telephone calls set new records too, Miss Harriett Krebs, chief operator for the Ohio Bell Telephone company here, said. She said there were 2,150 toll calls yesterday and the day before as compared with only 1,099 for the same period in 1945.

FEW 'DISTURB' NEW YEAR CALM

The police blotter indicated today that few Mansfielders "disturbed" the noisy greeting most of the city gave to the new year.

Only three persons were booked for intoxication and two for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Other New Year's eve and New Year's day calls made by police included three caused by "family trouble;" one to investigate a report of a prowler and one to check on the owner of a car parked on a lawn.

One person was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge and police investigated a complaint involving a fight.

Another report concerning a "woman screaming" proved fruitless. Police answered the complaint about 5 a. m. New Year's day but found no one—"screaming" or otherwise.

Spain Makes Move For Free Election

LONDON —(INS)— A London Times dispatch from abroad said today that a pact to form an interim caretaker government to conduct a free Spanish election has been signed by representatives of all but two Spanish political parties.

The Carlists and Communists were reported as the only factions not signing the pact. The caretaker government would have as its objective the conducting of a free plebescite to determine the nature of a new regime.

FRIENDS SAY HE'LL REMAIN AS ARMY CHIEF

General Reported 'Much Upset' By Presidential Speculations.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Friends of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower are confident today that the army chief of staff will issue a statement shortly completely divorcing himself from politics in an effort to kill off unwelcome presidential booms.

His friends say Eisenhower is determined to serve out his full term of duty as army chief of staff. His term will not expire until the fall of 1949, long after the next presidential term has begun.

The noted commander of all Allied troops in Europe is pictured by his friends as having no political ambitions whatever and desirous only of finishing his present assignment before "retiring to what he believes is a well-earned rest."

Men closest to Eisenhower say that he is "very much upset" by continued speculation over his availability for both the Republican and Democratic nominations in 1948. They add that he "doesn't understand why these presidential booms persist when he hasn't the slightest idea of ever seeking political office of any type."

* * *

'Tired of Being Accused.'

It is known that Eisenhower has maintained his "no-interest-in-politics" position privately ever since the presidential boom reports began about a month ago. Just recently he told friends:

"I am damned tired of being accused of having political ambitions. As a matter of fact, I am neither a Republican nor a Democrat and have never voted. I have never had any political ambitions and have none now."

One recent story particularly incensed Eisenhower. It declared Eisenhower had told a friend:

"I will run for the presidency if the people of the country want me to run."

When called to his attention, Eisenhower declared: "You know it's a lie."

* * *

Historic Precedent.

It is doubtful whether Eisenhower will be able to kill off all speculation. Many politicians contend that no man will ever turn down a presidential nomination. But there is a historic precedent for Eisenhower refusing such an honor.

In 1884, a group of Republican leaders sought to draft Gen. William T. Sherman as a "war hero" only to have him repudiate the effort. His famous reply was that if nominated, he would not accept and if elected, he would not serve. He was not nominated.

It is a curious political phenomena that both Democrats and Republicans have boomed Eisenhower for the presidency. This is not unprecedented. It happened to former President Herbert Hoover following World War one, before he declared himself a Republican.

K. TAFT 'ADMITS' HE DID GOOD JOB

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Ohio's short-term U. S. senator, Kingsley A. Taft (R), insisted today that he "did a lot of good" in congress the past 57 days despite the fact that no congressional sessions were held during that time.

Taft revealed that he had prepared a bill for presentation to the Ohio legislature which would eliminate the short term.

Admitting that the office possessed certain "futility," Taft told Cleveland constituents that he was "ready to do a good job" and that the short term had left him financially "in the red." Taft left Cleveland last night for his Washington office, the use of which he has offered to Senator-Elect John W. Bricker (R). Taft's duties end at 12 noon tomorrow. He expects to return to law practice in Cleveland.

ILLINOIS BEWILDERS UCLA IN FEATURE BOWL BATTLE

Georgia Splurge Stops North Carolina, 20-10

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sports talk today centered around Illinois' almost incredible feat of knocking off a hitherto unbeaten UCLA eleven 45-14 before 92,000 stunned onlookers at Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

It was by far the largest single game turnout of 20 bowl battles—the largest number ever—which treated a total turnout of 440 000 fans to 77 touchdown runs and passes

The victorious Georgia, Rice Georgia Tech, Oklahoma Hawaii and Delaware teams all contributed to this New Year's display of gridiron fireworks, but the game that will be remembered longer than any of the others is the 33rd edition of the Tournament of Roses

Inaugurating the Big Nine-Pacific Coast conference five-year plan, the underdog Illini scored in every period except the third to register as many points against bewildered Bruins as previously unbeaten UCLA's last seven opponents combined.

Scored More Points.

In only two other Rose Bowl games have teams scored more points Michigan, in the class.c's inaugural in 1902, scored 49 points in blanking Stanford, and Southern California registered 47 points against Pittsburgh in 1930

A capacity crowd of 73,000, which came to watch a scoring duel between Georgia's All-America Charley Trippi and North Carolina's Freshman Charlie Justice, saw the undefeated Bulldogs come from behind to hard the Tarheels a 20-10 lacing Georgia scored all its points in the second half ond half

The duel between Trippi and Justice never materialized as Trippi gained but 54 yards in 14 rushes and Justice only 31 in 17 attempts Trippi completed two passes in seven attempts netting 70 yards One of his tosses brought a score but another was intercepted to set up Carolina's score Justice threw only one pass completing it behind the line for a five yard loss

An 83-yard drive, climaxed by Halfback Carl Russ' 25-yard run and lateral to Hugh Keeney who ran another 25 yards for a touchdown, and a safety all in the first period enabled Rice to blank a rugged Tennessee team 8-0 before 38 000 Orange Bowl spectators at Miami

Arkansas outgained 271 yards to 54, balked three drives inside its own 10-yard line to gain a scoreless tie with power laden Louisiana State in the 11th annual Cotton Bowl game at Dallas before 38 000 fans

Fullback Gets Three

With Fullback Eddy Davis scoring three touchdowns and Bill Wallace one, Oklahoma overwhelmed North Carolina State 34-13 before 17 000 in the second annual 'Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville, Fla

Setting up four touchdowns on pass interceptions and another on an opponent fumble, Georgia Tech defeated a scrappy St Mary's eleven 41-19 before 23 000 in the third annual Oil Bowl at Houston, Tex

Trailing 7-6 at halftime the University of Hawaii rallied in the second half to nose out Utah university 19-16 before 20 000 to win the Pineapple Bowl at Honolulu

In other bowl tilts, Cincinnati triumphed over Virginia Tech 18-6 in the 12th annual Sun Bowl game at El Paso, Tex Delaware increased its victory string to 25 straight with a 21-7 win over Rollins college of Winter Park, Fla, in the Cigar Bowl Catawba overpowered previously unbeaten Maryville college 13 6 in the inaugural Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla, and New Mexico and Montana State battled to a 13-13 tie in the first San Diego Harbor Bowl

Big 9 Plays Pretty Good

FIGHTING ILLINI SWAMP UCLANS BY 45-14 SCORE

By BILL BECKER

PASADENA, Calif—(AP) The Big Nine plays a pretty fair brand of football, the UCLA Bruins ruefully conceded today.

The Bruins were still nursing bumps from a bruising 45-14 shellacking by Big Nine champion Illinois in the Rose Bowl yesterday. Coach Ray Eliot and his truly fighting Illini, grinning from ear to there, prepared to hop a homeward choo choo at noon

Slight underdogs in the pregame doping, the twice-beaten Illini fired dire warning by scoring in the first three minutes of play Before they were through deflating the previously all-winning UCLANs, the Eliotmen poured across six more touchdowns

Considered only a fine defensive team, Illinois—rolling behind a magnificent line—ran up 320 yards on the ground, a new Rose Bowl high Buddy Young and Julie Rykovich each netted 103 yards, averaging better than five per carry, as their hard-charging forwards slaughtered the Bruin tackles and line backers

All Illini linemen played brilliantly, with End Sam Zatkoff and Tackle Lou Agase on a par with All-America Guard Alex Agase

It remained, however, for UCLA's 143-pound reserve half, Al Hoisch, to produce the biggest thrill of this second-highest scoring game in Rose annals. Hoisch ran back a kickoff 103 yards for the Bruins' second touchdown, the longest run ever made in the famed saucer.

Another record fell when Bruin Quarterback Ernie Case completed 11 of 24 passes for 165 yards, topping by two yards the previous mark A Case-to-Hoisch pass covering 33 yards set up the other UCLA score made by Case on a sneak The first of Case's two conversions put the Bruins in front 7-6, at the quarter

Then, as 93 083 spectators sat amazed, the Illini poured across three tallies in the second period and three more in the final stanza

There was not a trace of fluke Illini drives of 60 77, 51, 49 and 86 yards Young scored two of the touchdowns As the Bruins grew desperate, Illinois intercepted Case tosses and ran 64 and 10 yards in the closing minutes

The Illini line, which taunted Bruins with "Sorry we're not Army," held UCLA's fast backs to 62 yards running Their defensive maneuvers outsmarted the Bruin blockers

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR OPERATORS

The leading lady of the telephone story is the operator. In the past five years, her flashing signal lights have recorded an amazing increase in calls. Long distance calls have doubled—and more Increase in local calls has ranged from twenty-five percent to well over one hundred percent. And traffic volume is still soaring.

While more operators are handling more calls than ever before, each operator brings to each call her sincere desire to give good service. To her, every call is an individual transaction rating full attention, imagination and interest. Her aim is to put these calls through swiftly and accurately. She is doing a remarkable job in the face of odds. New operators with the handicap of inexperience have stepped from training courses into this rush traffic and taken over like veterans.

Additional equipment, some of which has already been installed, and that which is on order, will make her task easier and your service better.

17 Games On Area Cage Card

TYGER FIVE ENTERTAINS LIMA TEAM

High school basketball helps get the 1947 sports year off in fine style tomorrow night with 17 games on the area schedule.

Mansfield Senior high is in for another of its weekly tough sessions with Lima Central providing the opposition in the Tyger lair. Central has a fast team which throws the ball at the hoop with wild abandon and the Dragons can prove mighty troublesome.

The Lima aggregation has won three of six games this year and boasts a squad featuring five lettermen. Central's latest victory was a 51 to 41 win over Lorain in the Lima cage carnival Saturday night.

Mansfield Madison goes into action tomorrow after a two-week holiday layoff. The Rams are scheduled to collide with Willard.

Feature game in the Richland county league finds Bellville playing at Butler. Butler has won six in a row in league competition while Bellville is second with five wins and one defeat.

In the other county league tilts, Lucas plays at Lexington, Plymouth at Ontario and Shiloh at Union. Lexington and Ontario are tied for third place in the circuit with four victories and two defeats.

Undefeated Norwalk entertains Bellevue in the top contest involving Northern Ohio league quintets. A victory will tie Norwalk with Shelby for the league lead. The latter club travels to Ashland in a non-league game.

Other non-loop encounters on tomorrow's card finds Bucyrus at Upper Sandusky and Galion at Crestline.

Rounding out the area schedule: Mt. Gilead at Chesterville, Jeromesville at Polk, Savannah at Ruggles, Perrysville at Hayesville, Sullivan at Nova, Edison vs. Alumni and Sparta at Danville.

Linksmen Tee Off In Pursuit of Ben

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— The nation's top linksmen tee off in pursuit of beltin' Benny Hogan again tomorrow as the 1947 winter golf tour opens with the 21st annual Los Angeles Open at Riviera country club.

Hogan, 1946's leading money winner, is a hot favorite to recapture the Los Angeles bauble he won in 1942, and pocket the $2,000 top cut of the $10,000 purse for the four-day, 72-hole grind.

Frye Drops Decision

GOP EYES RFC FOR INQUIRY

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A sweeping inquiry into the RFC's handling of war plants and contracts was under discussion today by Republican members of the senate war investigating committee.

The Republicans talked of undertaking the inquiry into the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as the first of several to be carried out if the life of the group is continued by the GOP-controlled senate.

If RFC's war activities were probed, a committee member said, it was likely that Jesse Jones, former head of the agency and former secretary of commerce, would be the first witness.

Also high on the list of prospective witnesses would be George E. Allen, who resigned last week as an RFC director after laying before President Truman a comprehensive plan to streamline the agency and take away many of its wartime powers.

The organization provided much of the financing for wartime industrial development either directly or through an interlocking maze of subsidiaries.

College Cage 5's Taper Off

College basketball, which celebrated the first day of the new year with a long card of exciting intersectional tilts, will taper off tonight.

The only intersectional matches on the schedule are UCLA at Purdue, Arizona at Michigan State and Holy Cross at Duquesne.

Of top interest will be the Boilermaker-UCLA tilt. The Purdue team, traditionally one of the Big Nine powerhouses, is something of a question mark this year. The strong UCLA squad will be an important test for the Boilermakers.

In regional games, Indiana faces Butler, Colorado plays at Kansas and North Dakota State will be at St. Ambrose.

Highlighting last night's games was the stunning upset of the Illinois Whiz Kids by Wisconsin in the opening game of the Big Nine season, 53 to 47.

3—In Memoriam

HAWK, ELIZA In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away one year ago today, Jan. 2, 1946.
She would nt want the ones she loves
To grieve fr her today;
We must nt say that she it dead,
For she is just away—
Away upon a journey
To land this bright and fair;
And though we all will miss her here
We know he's happy there—
And memories of her will bring
New comfort every day
As we recall-she is not dead
For she is just away!

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

PETER IS DISGRUNTLED

"What is the matter with you, Peter Rabbit?" demanded little Mrs. Peter.

"Nothing," mumbled Peter. "Nothing's the matter only"—He stopped.

"Only what?" Mrs. Peter wanted to know.

"Only some things don't seem fair," said Peter.

"Of course not. You wouldn't be you if they did. What is it this time?" retorted Mrs. Peter.

"Why shouldn't we have white coats in winter?" demanded Peter.

"You've been over in the Green Forest again," Mrs. Peter accused him.

Peter admitted that he had. He couldn't very well deny it for he knew that Mrs. Peter had seen him coming back to the dear Old Briar-patch from that direction. "Our cousins over there, the Hares, have white coats," said he.

"What of it?" demanded Mrs. Peter.

"Why shouldn't Old Mother Nature have given us white coats in winter, too?" replied Peter.

"Why should she have?" retorted Mrs. Peter.

"For the same reason she gave Cousin Jumper and his family their's," declared Peter.

"Perhaps she thinks we don't need white coats," replied practical little Mrs. Peter.

"Why don't we need them as much as our cousins do?" demanded Peter.

"I don't know, but do we?" said Mrs. Peter.

"Of course we do. We couldn't be seen by enemies as easily as we can now. Over there in the Green Forest I almost bumped into Cousin Jumper before I saw him, and he was sitting still right out in the open. That white coat of his made him look like just a lump of the snow he was squatting on. Why, if I had a white coat like his I wouldn't be afraid to go anywhere when there is snow on the ground," declared Peter.

"Then it is a good thing you haven't a white coat. You never would stay at home," retorted Mrs. Peter tartly. "If you ask me I don't see what good a white coat would do us here in the Old Briar-patch. What do we care who sees us in here? As long as we stay in here we are just as safe in brown coats as we would be in white coats. Those who hunt us can't get in here any easier for seeing us."

Peter was unconvinced. "If cousin Jumper needs a white coat I need one just as much Old Mother Nature simply isn't fair," grumbled Peter.

"Says who!" demanded Blacky the Crow, who arrived at the edge of the Old Briar-patch just in time to hear that last remark.

"He wants a white coat," said Mrs. Peter.

"Really! What for?" cawed Blacky.

"I didn't say I want a white coat. I said it isn't fair that Cousin Jumper should have a white coat and I not have one. If he is better off for having a white coat in winter I would be better off with one," said Peter.

"Would you? In what way?" asked Blacky.

"He wouldn't. He would be worse off. He never would stay at home then, and anything might happen to him," spoke up Mrs. Peter.

"What I mean is that what is good for one member of a family must be good for others of the same family. Hares and Rabbits belong to the same family and excepting for size are much alike in looks and ways of living. So what is good for Cousin Jumper must be good for me," declared Peter.

"You don't say," said Blacky. "So you think you know more about the matter than Old Mother Nature does?"

"No," replied Peter hastily. "I only said I think she is unfair. Do you know any reason why Jumper needs a white coat more than I do?"

"Several," was the prompt reply.

Chatham Makes Recreation Memorial to War Veterans

Tips on city recreation from a man who was in on the ground flooor, so to speak, in the in the organization of the Chatham, Ont., recreation pro-James Steele, visiting here over the holidays. Chatham is about half the size of Mansfield, which approved a two-tenths mill recreation levy at the November election.

Steele, former head of the physical education program for the RCAF in England during the war years, took over the new 17-acre recreation center at Chatham on July 1. The success of the venture has exceeded his own and everyone else's expectations, he said.

"We hadn't planned on having any definite program for the first six months," he explained. "We had thought that just getting started and laying the ground work for a program would be enough for a few months at least. But we've had 41,000 participations and we found we had to have a definite program."

• • •

"CHATHAM WAS ONE OF the cities of the North American continent whose young veterans wanted a living memorial for this war's veterans. Business men of Chatham, many of whom were veterans, formed a committee to plan for such a center. Council got behind the idea and appointed a recreational committee.

"They finally selected a site at the edge of town which had been previously donated to the Department of National Defense as a camp site for military personnel."

A $10,000 fund was raised by the business men and citizens, according to Steele, and a $250,000 debenture was floated by city council.

"OUR PROGRAM IS AN AMbitious one," Steele says. "So far we have a baseball diamond and grandstand, track and football field, various stadia, three soft ball diamonds, children's playground, cricket pitch, socceer field, large double gymnasium with stage, rifle range and expansive lounge, a woman's building, an athletic building for dressing accommodations for outdoors sports, an administration building, and a hobby and handicraft building. This last building will also, in the future, house boxing and wrestling rooms, special exercise rooms, domestic science and women's handicraft activities.'"

And that all in the short space of six months!

"Our service clubs," Steele continued, "all got into the project, bought some of the buildings and provided stadia. Numerous civic clubs, both men's and women's, joined forces with the memorial committee, the YMCA, the Catholic Youth group, the churches, industrial organizations, all found their places in the program and actively participated."

ONE OF THE UNUSUAL angles of the whole project, according to Steele, is that the farmers are participating.

"They have used the gymnasium for dances and meetings and we are making an effort to get more of them interested. One of the biggest meetings we have had so far was the baseball banquet attended by 1,200 and at which we had Steve Gromek, Cleveland pitcher, Bill Rogell and other noted players, as our guests. We've had circuses, carnivals, and all kinds of meetings so far. We expect within the year that our participation figures will reach 400,000."

It's Steele's job, not only to run the center, but to supervise all other city recreational projects and to "sell" the idea of center participation throughout the entire county.

His wife, Mrs. Neville Stark Steele, former Mansfield resident, plans to help in the supervision of a special children's program for Saturday mornings.

"We're looking forward to the time," Steele added, "when everybody's needs and wishes will be considered through the center."

TRAFFIC TOLL 13 IN STATE

(By International News Service)

The tragic aftermath of the New Year's holiday left at least 13 Ohioans dead of traffic injuries today.

A sheet of ice which blanketed highways was blamed for two of the deaths as two cars, in separate accidents, skidded into passenger trains when unable to stop at grade crossings.

At London Regina Smith, 23, of near Willoughby, was killed and her fiance, Edward Barach, 22, of Cleveland, was injured when their auto skidded past a flasher warning light and into a New York Central passenger train.

Toledo counted three dead in traffic crashes. They were Violet Myers, 23, of New Haven, Ind.; and John P. Ziegler, 30, and Clifford J. Russett, 34, both of Toledo.

Two men were killed near Port Clinton when they were struck by an auto as they were trying to start their own stalled car. They were Arnold Roe, 38, of Lacarne, and Herbert Brinley, 51, of Carroll.

Gilbert Vandyke, 25, was killed and his wife injured at Lockland, Cincinati suburb, when their auto skidded into a passenger train at a grade crossing.

An out-of-control car struck and killed Mrs. William Roof, 36, of Middletown, as she stepped into her yard a few minutes after the arrival of the New Year to call greetings to a neighbor.

A Springfield collision killed Harry Stoll, 20, of South Vienna.

Palace F. Wilson, 23, of Hamilton, was killed when his car struck a parked automobile.

At Akron Michael Pilo, 18, was killed when struck by an auto as he attempted to flag down traffic to permit friends to start their stalled auto.

Eleven-year-old George Merryman, of Canton, was killed when struck by an auto.

Reports He Was Robbed of $130

Police today were investigating a report by a North Franklin avenue man who said he was ousted from his car and attacked by two men who stole $130 from him.

Herbert Williams showed officers a long tear in a trousers pocket which he said occurred when the men grabbed for the money.

He said he had picked up the two unidentified men on North Main street early yesterday morning when they asked for a ride home. At Orchard street, he said, they pushed him out of the car, beat him, and stole his money.

YACHT DAMAGED

KINGSTON, Jamaica —(AP)— Movie Actor Errol Flynn arrived here yesterday aboard his yacht Zaca with a party of guests. The Zaca was slightly damaged when she ran into heavy weather enroute from Colombia, and will undergo repairs during the five days Flynn expects to remain in Kingston.

"CAMERA-GUN" VICTIM. Mrs. Olga Rocco, 28, (above) of New York, was shot and seriously wounded in a New York subway station by a shot-gun blast from a weapon disguised as a Christmas package and fired by a 19-year-old girl. The girl, Pearl Lusk, who aspired to be a detective, told police that a man, believed to be Mrs. Rocco's estranged husband, Alfresco, had told her the package contained an "x-ray camera" with which he wanted to make a picture of "hidden jewels" he said were secreted on the victim's body.

BRITAIN BECOMES OWNER OF MINES

LONDON —(AP)— The British government, already in possession of civil aviation and the Bank of England under Labor's nationalization program, became owner of the country's coal mines and the worldwide network of Cable and Wireless, Ltd., as the new year began.

The government promised better pay and working conditions and institute a five-day week for 690,000 miners and 10,000 communications workers. The Cable-and-Wireless system is valued at $120,000,000. Owners and mines and communications are being compensated with government stock.

Martin Bows Out Of Governor Job

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Governor Edward Martin, U. S. senator-elect mentioned among possibilities for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, officially bows out today as Pennsylvania's chief executive.

Lt. Gov. John C. Bell, jr. will head a "caretaker" state government until the inauguration of Governor-Elect James H. Duff on Jan. 2.

TIME PICKS BYRNES

NEW YORK —(AP)— Time, the weekly news magazine, today selected Secretary of States James F. Byrnes as "man of the year" of 1946.

ICE STALLS CITY AREA TRAFFIC

ice on most main streets was broken up by mid-morning. Five trucks were in operation for eight hours last night and four were assigned to cruising duty today.

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk reported that he called out 18 men and six trucks at 3 p. m. yesterday. This crew worked until 3 a. m. today spreading cinders on roads and pulling stalled cars out of ditches. Another crew of 30 men was on the job today, Rusk said that a number of cars went into ditches on the Amoy-Pavonia road and were abandoned temporarily.

West Fourth street and Park avenue west were the "worst streets in the city" according to C. M. Ross, superintendent of the Mansfield Rapid Transit company, who said that city bus service was stalled on the two streets between 3 and 5 p. m. He added that stalled autos in the vicinity of the Ohio theater on Park avenue added to the traffic tie-up.

The frozen rain also affected Greyhound bus service as buses to Sandusky and Canton were cancelled yesterday afternoon and arrivals and departures were delayed between 5 and 6:30 p. m.

DEWEY STARTS 2ND FOUR-YEAR TERM

ALBANY, N. Y. — (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, installed for another four-year term, turned today to the task of completing his annual message to the legislature after an inaugural address in which he looked beyond the state to stress foreign and national issues.

Dewey, before an audience which jammed the assembly chamber yesterday, sharply criticized the national administration, and recharted a middle-of-the-road governmental philosophy of his own.

"The bitter lesson of recent years is that no one is wise enough to try to control and direct the human relations or the business relations of a society so vast as ours," he said. "Here in our country a truly free society can continue to be the most productive, happy and stable society in the world."

6 Chicago Papers Face Strike Tieup

American Wage Earner Tops Those of Other Nations In Pay Rates, Says Union Man

(Editor's Note: In the following article, Robert J. Watt, AFL expert on international labor affairs, cites dollars-and-cents comparisons to illustrate the superiority of the American wage owner over the foreign worker in terms of wage rates and earnings. This is the second of two articles by Watt who has just returned from abroad.)

* * *

By ROBERT J. WATT
AFL International Representative
(As Told to INS)

WASHINGTON—The American wage earner enjoys a marked superiority over foreign workers in terms of wage rates and earnings.

For example, recent comparisons show average weekly earnings of hourly rated employes in manufacturing in the United States at $44.90 as against $30.10 in Canada.

A similar study of principal industries in this country and Great Britain — covering construction, some transportation, and public utilities, but excluding coal mining, railroads, shipping — places the average weekly earnings of American production workers at $42.86 and those in Britain at $18.67.

Income data offers a poor comparison, however, on relative living standards here and abroad. Such figures leave out differences in income taxes, government social services and payments in kind.

* * *

THE ONLY REAL TEST IN making comparisons between the United States and other countries is dependent upon an accurate determination of "real wages"—of what the dollar, the pound or the franc will buy in terms of butter, eggs, potatoes, flour, shoes, clothes and other basic necessities of life.

With foreign currencies changing as rapidly as they are, these figures virtually are impossible to obtain.

In October, 1943, the international labor office made comparisons of retail food prices in five countries. Using United States prices as 100, the ILO reported Canada's retail food price index at 79; Great Britain 61; Mexico 63; Argentina 39.

In the same survey, using statistics of the middle 1930's, the ILO found that all the countries except Canada showed a higher percentage of family expenditures for food than the United States.

A 1937-38 computation disclosed that 30.2 per cent of Canadian family expenditures were for food. Other comparisons: United States 33.5 per cent (1934-36); Great Britain 39.5 per cent (1937-38); Mexico 56.4 per cent (1934); Argentina 54.9 per cent (1935).

Up-to-date studies of family expenditures are not available for the foreign countries. Current figures probably would show a larger share of the family budget being devoted to food because of the sharp wartime rise in food prices.

* * *

A FULL AND ACCURATE comparison of the purchasing power of the American wage earner and foreign workers is impossible. The ILO report fails to include such important cost-of-living items as clothing, rent and fuel.

Recent studies provide a very limited amount of comparative wage data for the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Mexico and Chile. No figures are available for Russia. Nor can comparisons be drawn at the present time between American wage earners and those in France, Italy or Germany.

In January, 1946, the average weekly earnings of Americans and British production workers compared as follows:

Shipbuilding and repairing — U. S., $49.82; Britain $23.13. Electrical engineering—U. S., $43.47; Britain, $18.66. Iron, puddling, steel smelting, rolling, forging—U. S., $43.98; Britain $24.51. Paints, varnishes and colors—U. S., $45.18, Britain $17.66. Textiles—U. S., $32.45, Britain $15.23.

A 1945 comparison of American and Mexican wage data showed these average weekly earnings in four industries:

Railroads—U. S., $38.80; Mexico $13.64. Cotton spinning and weaving—U. S., $28.20; Mexico $10.85. Petroleum—U. S., $58.39; Mexico $17.84. Silk and Rayon spinning and weaving—U. S., $30.82; Mexico $13.11.

In July, 1946, the average daily "wages" per 8-hour day of American and Chilean workers were:

Copper mines—U. S., $9.92; Chile $3.33. Selected industries (paper and cardboard, cement, sugar, gas, tar and coke, electricity, woolen goods, beer, tobacco, cotton goods, leather—U. S., $7.97; Chile $1.68.

Many complications arise in making the above comparisons. The greatest obstacle is the scarcity of foreign wage data.

Police Captain Exam Is Ordered

SHELBY—An appointment of a night captain to the Shelby police force will not be made by Mayor Frank Long until candidates can be certified through a competitive civil service examination for the regular patrolmen, city officials revealed today.

The examination, to be held by the Shelby civil service commission, will decide which patrolman will be eligible for the newly created post which carries a salary of $220 a month, $15 higher than a regular patrolman's wages.

An examination will also be held for junior patrolmen at a salary of $165 per month.

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

As nearly as can be learned, Gen. Sherman never expressed himself about the peace that follows war.

The days are getting longer and prices are starting to drop—but scarcely enough to be noticeable as yet in either case.

The claim that people can be hypnotized over the telephone may account for some of the long time that some party lines give the busy buzz.

Prospects For TB Sanatorium Brighten

WHILE progress toward construction of Richland county's projected new tuberculosis sanatorium has thus far been distressingly slow, hope for a speed-up of action is seen in the Civilian Production Administration's requirement that work be started within two months and completed within a year.

Various delays have resulted in the loss of a full year in actual start of a vitally important project which many thousands of people in this city and county had hopefully anticipated would be brought near to readiness for use by now.

Present estimates are that the planned expenditure of $300,000, as sanctioned by voters in the 1945 election, will fall at least $100,000 short of probable cost, but this cannot be definitely known until bids have been received—which is to be next procedure by the county commissioners.

However strongly high material costs, high wages and large profits may influence the cost of such an institution as is contemplated, it would appear that this is an instance in which all who participate, whether as contractors, suppliers of materials, or workers, might well co-operate in an endeavor to provide the best building and necessary equipment possible for the money that can be made available—keeping in mind that this is to be an institution designed to save lives and restore health to those of this community who have fallen prey to an insidious disease that may strike any family.

Then too, it should be kept in mind that the site on which the sanatorium is to be erected comes as a gift from persons who acted in total disregard of the "profit motive" and entirely in the public interest. That good example may well be pondered by those who will have a part in carrying this fine project to completion.

Sugar Shortage 'Planned That Way'

ANOTHER YEAR with too little sugar faces the nation.

The reason is clearly revealed in a report of the congressional food study committee headed by Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio. Lamentable lack of common sense among wartime government planners is indicated by the report. For example:

". . . Our officials," the report stated, "seemed to be obsessed with the fear of a possible sugar surplus. Delay in signing the annual Cuban contracts, haggling over price, the OPA's insistence on holding the retail price of sugar at its pre-war levels, and an amazing lack of foresight on the part of our government officials contributed to holding down Cuban production so that the loss of Philippine sugar was not offset by Cuban production.

"Cuba had enough cane in the fields that year (1943) to produce a crop of approximately five million tons, but in signing its purchase contract the United States specifically limited production to 3,225,000 tons, insisting that Cubans leave unharvested enough cane to produce an estimated additional 1,750,000 tons.

"During this same period, production of sugar from beets and cane grown in the United States was permitted to fall far below the immediate pre-war years."

With the memory of the complete bungling of the meat situation fresh in their minds, housewives can hardly be amazed at the stupidity of a "we-planned-it-that-way" administration which uselessly deprived them of 1947 sugar. But even if they are not surprised, these housewives have a right to feel pretty sour about the unnecessary lack of sweetening.

Centennial of Thomas Edison's Birth

PREPARATIONS are already being made for the celebration—next February 11th—of the centennial anniversary of Thomas Edison's birth, which is of particular interest in this area because of neighboring Milan being the birthplace of the man who pioneered so effectively in the early stages of this electrical age.

In this country, where industrial, farm and home electrification have progressed far beyond the rest of the world, the debt of gratitude to Thomas Edison is immeasurable. His living monument is found in the great industries which his genius brought into being and the centennial anniversary of his birth fully deserves the elaborate observance it is to receive.

Moreover, the accomplishments of Edison, despite early handicaps, may well serve as an inspiration to present-day young Americans, for whom vast opportunities await development of ability to grasp them.

War Sometimes Came Close

A WAR secret, just revealed, is that a German plane flew over United States territory during the war. A modified Focke-Wulf 200 in 1943 made an air reconnaissance over Boston, New York and other Atlantic seaboard cities.

Likewise not until after the war closed was it announced that a German submarine had sunk ships in the mouth of the St. Lawrence river. Evidently the war was nearer than many realized. And this air flight suggests that the elaborate civilian defense organizations, with practice blackouts, were not mere play to give the participants a feeling of doing something, but were a vital part of war preparations.

Those Astounding Back-Pay Claims

PROBABLY one of the first bills that will occupy the new congress will be designed to control retroactive wage claims. The Gwynne Bill is one that will be considered. This would protect employers who acted in good faith, and would put a two-year limit on back-pay claims.

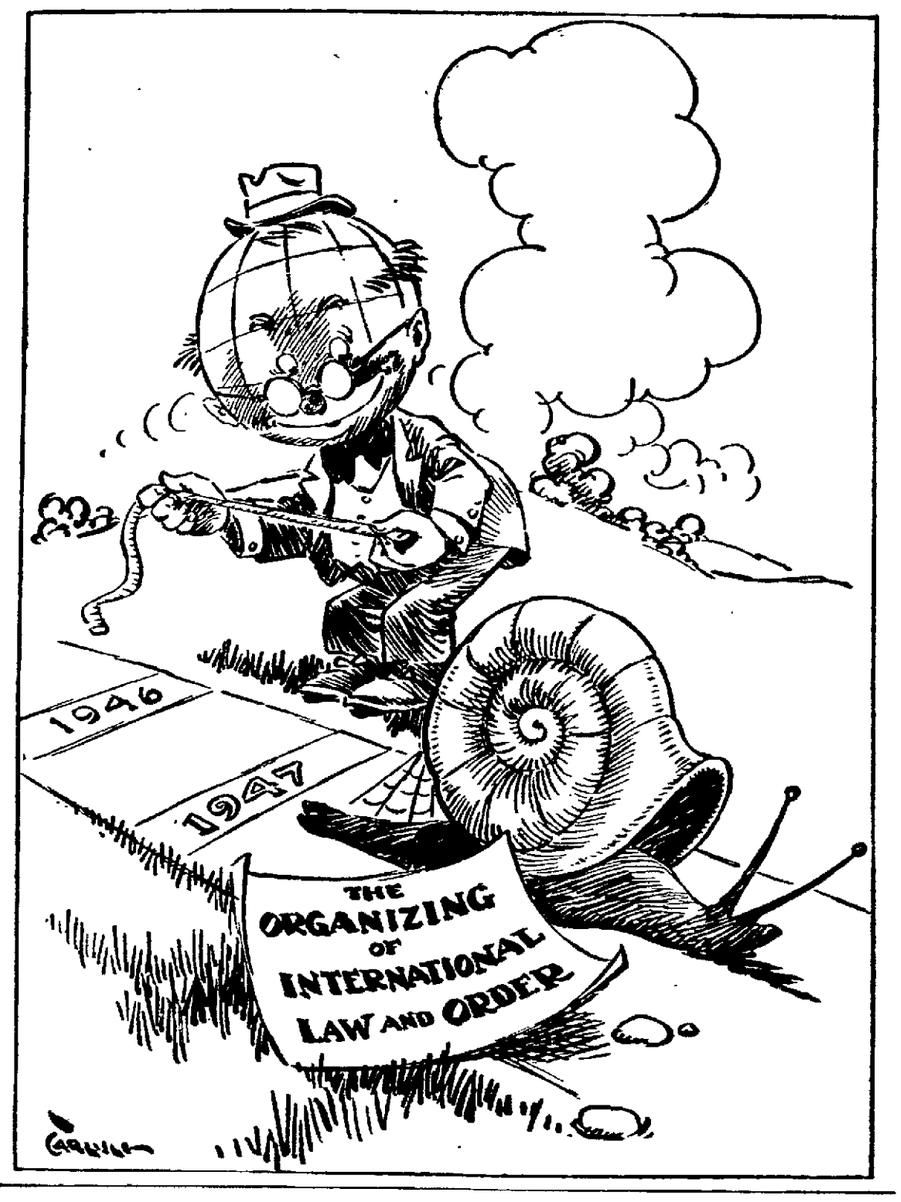
Unless some such legislation is enacted the government might have to pay war contractors billions of dollars. Widespread bankruptcy seems likely to follow if union demands for back pay were held legal.

Prediction is that motor traffic is to increase 65 per cent in 15 years—but maybe this is intended to include air transportation, as ground space is already overcrowded.

Word comes that an edible orchid has been discovered in Africa—and maybe the home product can also be eaten without harm . . . if anybody can afford to try it.

In Roman times the recipient of a gift book was compelled to read it—but, fortunately, compulsion has never applied to wearing some of those gift neckties.

ROME WASN'T BUILT IN A DAY EITHER



Wild Talk of Economic Disaster In U. S. Has Bad Effects Abroad

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE CURRENT troubles of American business are enormously over-emphasized in the European press. Russia is not the only offender.

The Swiss are supposed to be factual, but we read in an important Swiss newspaper, just arrived, that America is in great turmoil.

It says that, because price control has been abandoned, prices are skyrocketing at an unbelievable rate and serious inflation is inevitable.

Despite the plain fact that we have a vast supply of wheat and corn, John Strachey, Britain's food minister, says he cannot be sure of getting the food he needs from the United States because of our labor situation.

More serious are the views of Gunnar Myrdal, trade minister of Sweden and one of Europe's wisest economists. Myrdal seems to have been completely taken in by the cries of wolf which emanated from Chester Bowles and others when the O.P.A. fight was going on in June and July. He says the American price level is hopelessly headed into unlimited increases.

Since the Swedish price level had remained relatively stable, Myrdal agreed to a devaluation of the American dollar in Swedish exchange. This has not been altogether good for Sweden, since it raised Swedish commodities by 30 per cent, while American goods became cheaper in Sweden. Sweden's imports rose, and her exports fell off to a marked degree.

Apparently, the Swedish government was induced by the outcries of O.P.A. adherents to expect a devaluation of the American dollar. It is strange that a government which is shrewd and trade-wise should believe this. For there certainly is no disposition to tamper with the dollar in Washington. Any idea of devaluation is rendered even less likely by the Republican victory in November.

Myrdal, in a speech to the Swedish Economic Association, admitted that the excess of imports has been such that Sweden, one of the world's richest countries, is witnessing a dangerous decline in its supply of foreign currency. Hence, he pointed out that Sweden must sharply restrict her imports, a policy which runs counter to all the fine talk at the United Nations about more freedom of trade.

Myrdal did not openly admit it, but it is now obvious that it was a serious blunder to try, by a policy of depreciating the dollar in Sweden, to force the United States to follow a similar course.

Discussions about revaluating the franc in Switzerland have been going on. So far, the Swiss have not made the mistake so costly to Sweden.

In the past year almost all foreign businessmen who have visited us have anxiously inquired about our future policy toward the dollar. Americans find these fears of further devaluation somewhat strange, since no such intention has been apparent in our official family.

Even highly competent foreign observers fail to appreciate the exaggeration which characterizes our political utterances.

We know how to put plenty of salt on President Truman's O.P.A. speech last summer. It was, in retrospect, an absurd alarm. But foreigners take such matters more literally.

Despite our troubles, we might do well to talk more of what is right and good about our country. And meanwhile, it might be a good idea for the new congress to take action once and for all to assure the world that the dollar is not going to be depreciated. A simple legislative act is all that is required.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Jan. 2, 1927.

Home of Paul McConnell, 78 Poplar street, was burglarized and jewelry and money stolen.

George H. Blecker began second term as Richland county prosecuting attorney, with Van C. Cook as assistant prosecutor.

Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Oswalt, Weller township.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Boyce, 275 West Fifth street.

Article told of fine work being done by Visiting Nurses' association, of which Miss Wilmette Sears was director.

Sixty-three members of South Main Evangelical Sunday school were given honor roll recognition for having read through Bible within the year.

Word was received from Home Gardens, Calif., of birth of daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mattox, former Mansfield residents.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

The first flag of George Washington's army was raised on January 2, 1776. It had thirteen red and white stripes, representing the thirteen colonies; the corner now occupied by the forty-eight stars contained the Crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue ground.

Dave Boone Says:

THERE'S this to be said for the New Year: it got in without being vetoed by Russia. But it struck me that it came in nervously, as if afraid Gromyko was too close for comfort.

* * *

In review, 1946 wasn't such a terrible flop. No new global war was started, here and there a little trust was shown between human beings and now and then the word peace was mentioned at United Nations meetings without causing any hard feelings.

* * *

1946 came in with an atmosphere of meat crisis to meat-crisis and it went out in a portal-to-portal row.

* * *

The only portals we should be worrying about are the portals by which 1947 enters and exists. We can only hope it makes the trip with a minimum of unhappiness.

Calvin A. Byers

Farmer's Diary: "Lively Ruin."

IT IS always true, both summer and winter, that a dead hollow tree is the livest thing about woods or open field.

Half way up the valley in my neighbor's woods, stands a soft maple snag. The lower portion is just a heavy shell, while up 30 feet a branch broke from a crotch, many years ago, and decay started. Rain and frost, heat and cold, natural processes of change—now a long cavity reaches from that broken branch down to the deep-set roots.

A low wide opening between two roots showed faint moist prints of infant-like raccoon feet, since the last rains. I felt about the inside of the upper edge of the doorway, and was surprised at the smoothness of the interior, at that point.

When my eyes became accustomed to the darkness of the hollow interior, I could discern scraps of rotten wood that had been loosened and dislodged by the climbing feet. The cavity below was high and spacious enough to furnish shelter for any homeless woodchuck or luckless opossum . . . or even for a mother skunk with her trailing brood.

Standing close, the trunk was a tall wooden shaft. Standing afar, I saw round holes bored into the top above the crotch. A red-head or a yellow hammer had been busy. I saw small birds fly in and stay . . . it must have been their sleeping quarters. The openings were north and south, but the feathered creatures did not seem to show a preference.

But wild life is not the only life about this old trunk.

There are worms and fungi—boring worms, and bracket fungi that I scraped down with a stick. The brown and white threadlike roots penetrated deep into the wood. The soft white brackets had a pleasant odor. Their checkered whiteness showed far up the dark interior.

Buried deeper still and covering every point of softening surface are the bacterial legions.

Perhaps on some quiet summer morning, without a bit of warning, that aged shell will crash upon the leafstrewn woods floor. Here, with dampness of earth and lack of sun, all processes of decay will hasten. Soon all that remains will be a reddish line of soft woods earth—food for another of its kind.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

NOW the holidays are over and the old brown branches of the Christmas tree go out as the new green branch of government comes in.

* * *

The Republicans organizing the new congress are like men who haven't driven since Henry stopped making the Model T . . . hesitantly they sit at the wheel and wonder which is high gear and which is reverse on this model.

* * *

The moment they dreamed of has arrived and they still can't shake off the feeling that they're dreaming.

* * *

The president goes to congress in the spirit of the lion tamer who was new on the job. Said the lion tamer, "I am the boss around here but until you learn that fact I shall remain near the door."

The president anticipates the same sort of happy new year anticipated by Army-Notre Dame fans for 1948.

Ask Debate On Argentina Policy To Clarify Attitude Toward Peron

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—First big test of a continued nonpartisan foreign policy will come over the vital question of whether U. S. Ambassador George Messersmith is licking the boots of Argentine Dictator Peron.

Two Republican senators, hard-hitting Brewster of Maine and vociferous Wherry of Nebraska are out to rake U. S. anti-Peron policy over the coals either in hearings before the senate foreign relations committee or before the full senate.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Messersmith himself has been summoned from Buenos Aires for a review of his friendship policy with President Peron.

Secretary of State Byrnes, hitherto busy with European affairs, will soon make the final decision as to whether we work with or against Peron.

Upon the outcome of his off-the-record talks with Messersmith will depend the future course of U. S. policy in much of South America. For already Argentina is reaching out, somewhat like Hitler, to take over its weaker neighbors.

Twelve years ago, Messersmith, then U. S. minister to Austria, watched and warned of Hitler's tactics in Europe. Now, for some strange reason, Messersmith seems oblivious to similar dangers. Here are some of the confidential reports he has been sending from Buenos Aires:

Nazis In Argentina.

1. Messersmith informed the state department that Hedy Lamarr's ex-husband, Fritz Mandl, the big Austrian munitions maker, was a swell guy and should be admitted to the USA a little later. He explained that Mandl should wait for fear the "irresponsible American press" might make it embarrassing if he entered the USA now.

2. Ludwig Freude, one of the top Germans in Argentina, was defended by Messersmith, despite the fact that the state department wanted him seized. Freude is known to have paid money on behalf of Hitler to subversive agents in Argentina, and if he were returned to the U. S. army in Germany, would have been shot. Peron was considering imprisonment for Freude, until Messersmith interceded and said the United States was not interested.

3. Messersmith sent a twenty-page report to the state department on New York Times correspondent Frank Kluckhohn, calling him irresponsible and unbalanced. He even intercepted some of Kluckhohn's stories critical of Messersmith and sent them to the state department with pointed comments. Later Kluckhohn was seized by the Argentine police and given a severe grilling.

4. The U. S. ambassador also sent a critical report to the state department on Virginia Prewitt, writer on Latin American affairs, who had dared report on Fascist developments in Argentina.

Recently Senator Brewster of Maine visited Argentina, where he was entertained by Ambassador Messersmith and received by President Peron. Since then Brewster, who has had a healthy influence on domestic affairs, has been urging GOP colleagues in the senate to stage a full-dress senate review of U. S.-Argentina foreign policy with a view to increased friendship with Peron. He has also wanted Messersmith to testify before the senate.

Note—It is doubtful that new Foreign Relations Chairman Vandenberg will fall for this. That is one reason why irrepressible Senator Wherry of Nebraska is considering an Argentine debate on the senate floor.

Airline Dynamite.

The dynamite now exploding inside Trans World Airlines between Jack Frye, its president, and Howard Hughes, its chief stockholder, has caused members of the Civil Aeronautics Board to begin some careful probing of the aviation industry. Their probe indicates that things aren't going anywhere nearly as well as the airline ballyhoo indicates.

Among other things, six companies operated in the red during the first nine months of 1946—TWA, Colonial, Chicago and Southern, Northeastern, Pennsylvania-Central, and Western.

Furthermore, the airlines have over-ordered new planes to such an extent that they will never be able to use more than a fraction of the planes supposed to be delivered.

For instance, the present fleet of civil planes has a capacity of 15 billion seat miles annually. However, when the planes now on order are delivered, capacity will be 41 billion passenger seat miles.

This is in contrast to the fact that the planes now on hand are 100 per cent in excess of the passengers now carried. Result is many unpublicized cancellations. One of the most disquieting situations is the fact that TWA has placed large orders with Lockheed, and heavy cancellations would deal Lockheed a tough blow.

Meanwhile TWA, with some of the most lucrative routes in the country, operated with a $3,235,491 loss in the third quarter of 1946 after taking tax credits. And during the first nine months of 1946, TWA took a net loss of $4,846,000 after taking tax credits of $2,943,000. Despite this TWA has been ordering more planes than any other company.

These are some of the reasons why the Civil Aeronautics Board has begun a thorough probe of the whole aviation set-up.

Merry-Go-Round.

Stanley Hornbeck, now ambassador to the Netherlands, will soon resign . . . Secretary of State Byrnes has sent a third note to Moscow asking the Russians to negotiate regarding the end of lend-lease. The other two notes to Moscow on lend-lease have not yet been answered . . . Democratic Senators Murray of Montana, Pepper of Florida, Taylor of Idaho, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, and Kilgore of West Virginia will call a conference in January of all organized labor to map a fight against anti-labor legislation . . . Secretary Byrnes is considering sending an economic mission to Turkey to bolster the Turkish economy . . . The American embassy in Madrid reports that the United Nations resolution against Franco has been a big help in the fight to unseat the Spanish dictator. The cable candidly points out that the only negative effect of the United Nations resolution resulted from the failure of the United States and Great Britain to take a strongly anti-Franco attitude. This discouraged the Spanish underground.

Responsibility Now Shifts to Republicans.

WASHINGTON — This new year, more than any in recent times, represents a sharp and decisive change from the past, politically speaking.

This is for the obvious reason that it brings a shift in management of one of the three branches of the government. Congress assembles this weekend under complete Republican control for the first time in nearly 16 years.

The nation faces the critical prospect of a divided government, with a Democratic president in the White House, and with the third branch, the Supreme Court, still dominated by appointees of President Roosevelt.

Despite this division and some disclaimers to the contrary, the Republican party assumes a larger share of responsibility in the public mind than its control of one branch might indicate. That is because the party represents the change for which the public voted. (It could ony make a change in congress, there having been no presidential election.) Also, there is added responsibility because a change in congress forecasts a change in the White House two years hence.

There is a definite break with the more recent past, too, because the change in management of congress brings a change in the philosophy of government and in the approach to the numerous problems that confront the nation.

The last year, 1946, was once called by President Truman "a year of decision" and in many ways it was—in one way that he perhaps did not foresee when he said it. That was the decision of the voters to replace a Democratic with a Republican congress.

This new year is likewise a year of decision, and in some ways a momentous one.

For we are entering upon an adventure and an experiment, that is, by contrast with our course for the last dozen or so years and the course of governments in the rest of the world.

We are switching over from a more centralized and controlled economy, as exemplified by the New Deal and intensified by the necessary restrictions of war, to an economy in which the national government will assume, at least, to play less part.

The burden, instead, will be transferred to what we call "the free- enterprise system," that is, private business and industry. The break, however, is not as abrupt as that, for we still keep all sorts of controls against excesses by special-interest groups that were voted by congress in the New Deal years and have been ratified in national elections since.

These basic controls, which affect our banking system, our securities markets, minimum wages and maximum hours and collective bargaining for labor, assistance to agriculture, and the like, were not issues in the last campaign. The public gave no mandate for doing away with them. It did show a desire for revising our basic labor laws, and this will become one of the first problems of the new Republican congress.

Under the guise of economy—a major objective of Republicans—it will be possible to reduce the effectiveness of various New Deal reforms by withholding or reducing appropriations for agencies that administer them. Democrats expect something of this sort, and are alerted for it.

We go into the new year freed of most war controls. The war has nearly been liquidated. The dropping of price controls let loose an inflation that is disturbing the administration and Republicans alike.

It poses many problems for the coming year that range widely, including the veterans' housing program that has been seriously affected, and the cost of living which has brought demands for labor for new wage increases.

All this, and the responsibility it entails, has sobered the Republican leadership as it takes up management of congress. Wiser counsel is resisting any such rush back to "normalcy" as followed World War I when the Republicans returned then to power.

That is the chief danger as we face the new year.

It is a danger that the public can help to avert if it will watch closely what goes on here.

Voluntary Enlistments Fall Short of Needs.

WASHINGTON — The war department has been staging a series of spine-chilling, off-the-record press conferences on the menace and horror of another war, when radio-activated dust and bacteria of a new degree of deadliness will rain down on cities and towns.

It is no coincidence that this comes at this particular time. Soon requests for appropriations will go up to the new congress. Policy-makers in the war department are fearful that the great American public, and with them their representatives in congress assembled, will settle back into the comfortable, somnolent indifference of the pre-1939 years.

Of immediate concern is the necessity to live up to our occupation commitments in Germany, Japan and Korea. This takes men and money. And congress is waiting, ready to wield the economy knife.

There are three key points in the program the war department will present to congress. No. 1, at any rate from the point of view of its chances of passage, is unification of the armed services.

In a compromise form, this is likely to go through if only because it will mean some economies. Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson has worked unceasingly for unification. In recent discussions in the bureau of the budget on military appropriations, Patterson spoke in warning:

"Don't go to the president and tell him there are no duplications in these requests. There are duplications and you all know it as well as I do."

Navy policy-makers have always belittled the economies that could be achieved in this way. But Patterson insists they are not small. He points, as one example, to the fact that the army and navy maintain separate flying fields with completely separate staffs here in Washington. With unification of commands in the Pacific, it may be possible to take another step and bring about unification at the Washington level.

Point No. 2 in the war department program is universal military training. President Truman has named a commission of civilians who will advise the department on an expanded program of which military training would be one part. This is an effort to make it more palatable to the public. But even so, it is highly unlikely that congress will adopt it.

The third point is continuation of selective service. Just here, of course, the manpower pinch in the occupied countries cuts hardest. The recruiting of volunteers fell off during November and December. This can partly be put down to a decline normal for the season.

But there is grave doubt in the war department that voluntary recruiting will suffice.

Senators returning from occupied Germany are complaining that too many of our occupation troops are beardless boys, or young men who appear to be sub-standard.

Patterson wants to be able to tell congress that he has given the voluntary method the fullest possible test.

The selective service act as extended by congress at the last session expires on March 31. After extension of the draft act, a moratorium was declared under which young men could not be drafted for two months. A second moratorium ends on the last day of January.

This is a ticklish subject that touches the sensitivities of most voters. It is likely to be complicated by a senate investigation into the German occupation. The Republican majority will be reluctant to jeopardize its fund of public good will by adopting a measure bound to produce popular discontent.

Arnheim 'Red Devils' Missed Hidden Fortune In Guilders

BERLIN—(AP)—A multi-million dollar treasure in gold lay virtually at the feet of Britain's gallant "Red Devils" when they dropped from the sky on Arnheim, it has been learned from Heinrich Himmler's secret reports.

Unknown either to the airborne invaders or the embattled Wehrmacht garrison, the fortune lay for two days in the vault of the bank in the blazing little town.

It consisted of 32 sacks of gold coins—five million gold guilders—and represented the entire gold reserve of the enemy-occupied Netherlands.

Two days after the start of the tragic battle, while the heavily-outnumbered skytroopers still were confident of relief by Allied tanks from ten-mile distant Nijmegen, a patriotic Dutch banker his life to "loot" the gold from under the very nose of the Wehrmacht.

The 32 heavy sacks were transferred to the cellar of the private home of the bank steward.

Relief faltered under enemy counter-attacks and the British were squeezed into a tiny pocket on wooded high ground just west of the town. The dead and missing numbered thousands.

At last, on order of their army commander, 2,000 surviving "Red Devils," slipped out of the trap at night in single file to regain the main British line across the Lek river.

Behind at Arnheim, the Dutch banker still guarded the gold he had intended to save for his queen and people.

Then Himmler's Gestapo, which had been napping, began to act. The banker, Bye de Vroe, was arrested. What happened to him was not disclosed.

BUCYRUS BUILDING BOOMS DURING '46

BUCYRUS—In spite of material shortages and government regulations, Bucyrus experienced a building boom in 1946 when nearly three quarters of a million dollars worth of new building was done in the city.

A total of 124 building permits were issued during the year, with a total building valuation of $732,555. Only 28 permits were issued in 1945 and building valuation during that year was only $54,150.

Included in the 1946 building were 75 non-residents, including garages, factory additions and small shops and offices.

Included in 1946 building were the $30,000 new Dodge agency built by the Lott Motor company; the Scott Brothers' garage on North Walnut street, $10,000; Sozonian Vault, $24,000 addition; $10,000 Crawford Steel Foundry addition, and the $300,000 Swan Rubber company addition.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A nominee of Carter Glass for Annapolis was rejected because of "defective teeth." Outraged, he sought out Charles F. Adams, Republican Secretary of the Navy, and spoke to him, stipulated, "You don't expect him to bite the enemy, do you?"

"If you Democrats keep slashing our Navy appropriations," answered Adams, "he may have to."

A doctor at a free dispensary examined a vaudeville actor and then handed him three pills. "Take one pill every meal," he prescribed, "and let me know if there is any improvement."

A month later, the doctor met the actor on the street and said angrily, "Why haven't you come in to report to me?"

The actor said, "You told me to take a pill after every meal, didn't you? You gave me three pills, didn't you? Well, I've still got two pills left."

Married 25 Years—Wife Goes Home to Her Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It is never surprising when a bride of a few months goes home to mother that is apt to be part of the scheme of things in early married life before a young wife gets used to the fact that she has married a mere man and not a paragon of all the virtues

But when one hears of a woman who has been married 25 years and then does approximately the same thing, it is something to be taken more seriously

Here is a husband who is facing this problem with his wife of many years' standing

"Dear Miss Fairfax

'My wife and I have been married for the past 25 years. We have 3 daughters—one married, two single and both working

"For the past year my wife has seemed to want to spend all her time with her mother who has two daughters, besides my wife, with her She doesn't need my wife's help However, pleading and begging can't get my wife away from her for more than a week at a time

"I need my wife, love her, and greatly miss her. She tells me she loves me, but this can't go on

"I make good money and have always given her one hundred per cent of her asking I have been nice and kind to her

'Should I get a divorce and quit? If so will time let me forget the one I love?

'Please give me the answer. I can't get it from my wife. I and 47 and my wife is 48

Disgusted

Of course you must be disgusted with this situation, especially when you have tried as hard as you say to make your wife happy

But before you give any serious thought to getting a divorce I think you might try to help your wife see the situation a little differently Instead of merely begging and pleading with her to stay in her home it may be that you can give her a new point of view that will make her want to do so herself

No doubt with one of your daughters married and the other two working, your wife misses the companionship of other women relatives When a woman has been used to having daughters in the home with her, it is perfectly understandable that she is very lonely for them when they leave her This is no reflection on the husband It is merely a natural thing, and might very well account for the fact that your wife wants to spend so much time with her mother and sisters Of course you yourself are away all day at your own work, which, would leave your wife alone at home from morning until you get home at night

A great many women in middle-age whose children have grown up and developed interests outside their own home, face this same problem for a time, of filling a life that has suddenly become rather empty If they are wise and clearsighted they understand themselves and see the necessity for developing some new interests of their own That is what your wife needs to do

You say that you make good money Would there be any chance that you and your wife would care to adopt a child? You are both far from elderly, and have much time ahead yet to enjoy such a project I should think it might appeal to your wife and would give her a good reason for being in her own home Why don't you suggest this to her?

Are there some organizations in your town in whose work your wife might get interested? Naturally, I don't know what her tastes may be, but in almost every town there is some group in whose activities a woman can join and with whose members she can be congenial Haven't you some friends you might talk this over with and see if they couldn't help you in interesting your wife in some such activity? I certainly would try some such plan before deciding that you and your wife can't be happy together anymore You must remember, too, that at 48 a woman is apt to be going through a difficult period and feel restless and unsettled anymore Such a condition is almost always temporary, and when a woman's husband has patience and understanding things are likely to straighten themselves out

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Hollywood MA Remembers—As most people know, the Warner Brothers' current white hope for Academy honors, "Humoresque", is a remake. The initial version of the story, which probably bears only a slight resemblance to this season's film, was made as a silent picture back in May, 1920.

Broadway really hummed in 1920. Take a quick look at the Times Square scene of that era.

The front pages were announcing the surrender of Nicky Arnstein, who had been sought on embezzlement charges. Nicky, husband of Fannie Brice and inspiration for her classic song, "My Man", surrendered to one Judge Crain in a dramatic fashion. On his way to give himself up he paused for an hour to watch a parade—a parade of some 2,000 New York policemen, all of whom had been furnished with a complete description of him. Levi Morton, Governor of New York from 1895 to 1897 and Vice President of the United States under Benjamin Harrison, died the week "Humoresque" opened. So did William D'Alton Munn, editor of a little gossip sheet tagged "Town Topic". Bankers gathered in Washington that week to discuss plans on fighting inflation.

* * *

Fannie Hurst, who wrote the original "Humoresque" story, hit the front pages when it was revealed that she had been married secretly for five years to a pianist named Jacques S. Danielson. She explained:

"My marriage was not the result of a fad but simply the working out of a problem according to the specialized needs of two professional people." The two lived apart for five years and made dinner dates with each other, or so the tale went, not more than twice a week.

Mary Pickford arrived in town and said: "Everybody is writing books these days. I am definitely not writing one, nor will I ever". She did, though—a famous tome of its time, titled "Why Not Try God?"

* * *

E. V. Lucas, editor of London's "Punch," viewed the lower end of Manhattan from the Hudson and commented upon the loveliness of the sight. "A perfect marriage of Commerce and Romance," said he. Kid McCoy was arrested in a Reisenweber brawl and Dean Jones of Yale deplored "parental influence and youth's crazy secking after gaiety and the terrifying lessening of morality standards." In the legitimate theatre of that day, Richard Bennett was starring in a Eugene O'Neill play, "Beyond The Horizon", at the Little. Ina Claire could be seen in "The Gold Diggers" at the Lyceum. Chauncey Olcott was starred in "Macushla" at the Park Theatre. Ed Wynn was in his "Carnival". Frank Bacon trod the boards in "Lightnin'", Willie Collier in "The Hotten Tot". Marjorie Rambeau played in "The Sign On The Door" and Fay Bainter starred in "East Is West". The Palace, mecca of big time vaudeville was headlining the Moscomi Brothers, Victor Moore, Herman Timberg and Co., and Joe Laurie jr. Everybody was reading "Now It Can Be Told", by Philip Gibbs, H. C. Witwer's "No Base Like Home", "Bruce", by Albert Payson Terhune, "Woman Triumphant", by Ibanez, "The Man Of the Forest" by Zane Grey, and "His Friend And Wife" by Cosmo Hamilton.

* * *

It was an age of post-war skylarking and everybody was whistling "Love Nest", "Ain't We Got Fun", "I'm The Sheik of Araby", "Avalon" and "Whispering". A girl named Joan Crawford was thinking vaguely of coming to New York to get a dancing job. John Garfield was a Dead End kid on Manhattan's lower East Side, and Oscar Levant—who is wonderful in the current "Humoresque"—was a Pittsburgh kid who had never seen a light on Broadway.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, January 3.

THE exciting and high-tensioned condition of major affairs is in line to find fresh peril by an emotional urge or impulse to go "all out on a limb" with dire reactions on the success of projects already on a practical foundation, due to an urge to plunge into extravagance, excess and unreasonable outlay, in which the finances, reputation and personal affiliations may exact gross penalties. The effort to bolster up threatened interests may swing too far on the danger line.

Those whose birthday it is are advised to adhere to established programs and plans by sticking strictly to the systematic and well-organized foundations, and not to subject sound projects already making promising headway, by an impetus or rash urge to plunge into excesses with funds, assets, or unjustified extravagances, all of which may react disastrously on the credit, good name, and private standing. A reckless push toward biting off more than can be digested might lead to many disruptive and unhappy situations.

A child born on this day while having ability and energy, may have an extravagant and overzealous nature, challenging disaster and loss of standing or unhappiness.

Brushes made from the leaves of yucca, New Mexico's official state flower, were used by prehistoric Pueblo Indians to paint designs on their pottery.

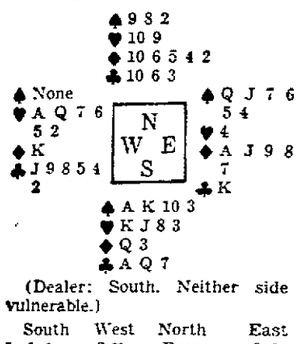
Barclay On Bridge

"HOT POTATO" is a term invented several decades ago, in the days of auction bridge, to describe the kind of deal which is bound to burn somebody's hands. Its distinguishing characteristic generally is the lack of fitting suits in the hands of either partnership. Because of that fact, neither side can find an apparently good suit for its trump. Add to that the additional feature that the remainders of any player's long suit are all stacked in one opponent's hand, and punishment is guaranteed to anybody who winds up as the declarer.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	4 ♣	Pass	4 ♦
Dbl
2. 1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♦
2 ♥	Dbl	2 ♠	Dbl

This deal in a team of four match was a "hot potato" if there ever was one. The question of which side took the burning was decided by what amounted practically to an intangible. You would never guess, if you were kibitzing West, that the suit he selected for overcalling with his freak would have such an influence. But that is just what developed.

Where West selected hearts for his overcall, the bidding not only got too high for South to rebid, but also appropriated the suit he would have called. So East and West were stuck with it, and went down four tricks doubled—cost 700 points. West, of course, might have saved most of that by shifting to 4-Hearts.

Where West picked clubs for the overcall, the bidding reached South at a low enough stage for his rebid and also made it possible for him to bid hearts. Notice how pleased West was with that. North of course properly shifted then to spades, which pleased East. How much did that get set? Exactly the same as the set at the other table—four tricks, costing 700 points, so that the hand was tied by the two teams. South got only four tricks at 2-Spades—the spade A and K, A of clubs and 10 of diamonds, due to the vagaries of the play that developed.

Club Stage Drive For Building Fund

The National Federation of Music clubs will take the initiative in raising funds for the rebuilding of London's famous Queen's Hall, which parallels New York's Carnegie Hall in tradition.

Ohio's state chairman for the campaign is Mrs. Enola Burdick of Cleveland Heights.

Queen's Hall, host to practically every noted figure in the music world during the past few decades, was bombed during the London blitz of World War II.

Reconvert House For Bucyrus Vets

BUCYRUS—The first move of county commissioners to relieve housing shortages for veterans was made this week when the county board purchased the Menninga home, 209 South Lane street, to be converted into a four family residence for veterans and family.

The house was purchased for $10,000 from the $30,897 alloted to the county in the state emergency housing program.

Ether as anesthesia was being used throughout the civilized world within six months after its first successful demonstration in 1846 in Boston.

Sheep Claims Up In Bucyrus Area

Twenty-eight farmers submitted claims. Total claims paid up to the last quarter this year were $1,123.90, less than the sum paid in the last quarter alone.

Largest claim of the quarter was paid to Edwin R. Schwemley of Lykens for $245.20 for 25 animals killed.

FROZEN FOOD, BLOCK PLANTS OPEN IN TIRO

TIRO—The new year is bringing into operation two new businesses for Tiro.

K. C. Wagner, who, with Hugh Pfleiderer, will operate the Tiro Concrete Block plant, said today full operation would start next week in the block building back of the Tiro Evangelical United Brethren church which formerly housed the Pfleiderer's Tiro hatchery.

L. M. Pope and John Farrell, proprietors, said they expected to start processing operations by mid-January in their new Tiro Frozen Food locker plant.

Most of the freezing units have arrived and are being installed by Ray Hohenshell, Mansfield refrigeration expert, and Wilbur Kiess, Bucyrus electrician, assisted by Harold Simpson and Pope and Farrell.

In connection with the locker plant a modern slaughter house has been built on the Pope farm and is now in operation. Custom butchering is done each Tuesday.

Machinery for the block making plant was installed in December and a few blocks were made Dec. 18. The trustees of the Tiro E. U. B. church purchased the first blocks and used them in the church basement.

The plant will have a capacity of 1,000 blocks per day. A display and storage yard will be maintained. Both Wagner and Pfleiderer are natives of Tiro and graduates of the high school here.

Wagner, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner, served as mayor of Tiro for several years.

Pfleiderer's father, F. M. Pfleiderer, now resides in Mansfield. Hugh served in the U. S. Navy during the war.

MINOR FIRES KEEP GALION FORCE BUSY

GALION — While several runs were made by the Galion fire department over the New Year holiday, no serious fires resulted.

Several trips were made to the ruins of the First Evangelical United Brethren church where fire had broken out in the debris at intervals since the church was destroyed Dec. 1.

A small roof fire at the Charles Cramer residence, 514 Fairview avenue, at 7:45 p. m., Tuesday, caused only slight damage. The blaze was extinguished before the fire department arrived.

Another call answered by the fire department was on East Church street near the post office building when fire ignited around the carburetor of a car owned by A. H. Baker of Galion. Only slight damage resulted. The call was made at 5:15 p. m., Tuesday.

2 1947 Babies Born In Galion

Second new year baby was a daughter born at 11 a. m. to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wegener of Chesterville.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. No cooking needed. It's no trouble.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, and makes breathing easy. If not pleased, your money will be refunded.
